Consignment Agreement

This is an agreement for you (consignor) and Rhubarb & Custard (consignee):

1. I, the undersigned, am wanting to consign my items with Rhubarb & Custard. Consignor states that he/she is the owner of all goods placed for consignment and that you didn't swipe them from your best friends closet. Consignor also represents that Rhubarb & Custard has the right to refuse any item that is brought in our store for consignment.
2. Our consignment period will run for a period of ninety days. Rhubarb & Custard will value and price all items accepted for consignment, and will markdown if necessary to keep our inventory fresh. We may also list items on eBay in an auction style format.
3. Rhubarb & Custard will pay consignor 40% of the selling price for any items sold. Furniture and larger equipment will capture 50% of the selling price. Rhubarb and Custard cannot guarantee the sale of any one item but we will do our best.
4. Any items not accepted for consignment will be picked up within five days of drop off. After five days it will be packed and donated to a chosen charity for that particular month.
5. Consignor can have the option to receive payment for items sold via store credit or a check. Checks will be issued on the 12th of each month, and any amount below $10 will accrue until the following month.
6. Any unsold items not claimed within 7 days after the consignment period will become property of Rhubarb & Custard, and will be donated to a chosen charity for that particular month, or cleared.
7. I will not hold Rhubarb & Custard responsible or lost or damaged items due to fire, water, vandalism, theft, building collapse, implosion, damage by the evening gremlins. All items are left at consignor's risk.

I hereby agree to all the terms and conditions of this agreement.
